Dear Fr. Bartell,

We write this letter on behalf of all of the Notre Dame students whose lives you have shaped through your contributions to campus. We cannot thank you enough for all you have done to improve the Notre Dame campus, as well as its reach to the greater world. Through the Kellogg Institute, your legacy at Notre Dame will continue to thrive. It has been our pleasure to meet you for lunch so many times and we look forward to many more. We always love hearing the stories of your past, from which we learn in order to shape our own futures. We cannot thank you enough for sharing so much of your life with us. We are sure that you could not have imagined that when you were our grandfather's roommate so many years ago how influential you would be in his grandchildren's lives. We have enjoyed sharing our short time here at Notre Dame with you. Thank you again for all you have done for our beloved school and our own lives. May God bless you on this day and always.

Go Irish!
